Dear Paul,

I trust you are well, and thank you for copying me in as below.

It is of some concern to me that, after many years, I've not received any communication from you client, Eskom, with regard to my property.

Please can you advise me, for the purposes of clarity:

- a) It is still proposed that the sub-station should be built on my property; and
- b) Whether, in your experience, it is customary for the client to entirely ignore the registered and lawful owner of the property. As you know, this process has been ongoing for several years, and to date I have had no communication from Eskom. It's a bit surprising to me that, while I believe you have kept me informed of the EIA, your client seems to be unaware of my existence or my legal rights as owner. Considering my experiences with Imgeni Water, who commenced works for a pipeline on my property without any communication at all, I'm rather concerned that Eskom might act in a similar vein.

It might be helpful if you would be kind enough to let me know the details of the key Eskom personnel who are involved in this project, in order that I might address them directly? I think it might be prudent for me to contact Eskom directly, as they have not manifested any intention of communicating with me in this regard.

Many thanks

Kind regards

Lorraine
